Mark Kidwell : '68 Volume 5: Homefront before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised '68 Volume 5: Homefront:

1 of 2 people found the following review helpful. Zombies back home in the good ol' USA and Canada By Paul Allard In the previous volumes, the action took place during the Vietnam war as the army fought off zombies as well as the Viet Cong. In the first story, we're in Pennsylvania in 1968 and zombies are emerging from the graveyards. In the second, the same problem is starting off amongst draft-dodgers in Canada. The third story takes place in San Francisco and involves the Zodiac killer. Having read previous volumes, these are getting quite boring. Basically its zombie-killing in different contexts but nothing more than that.

In February of 1968, hell gave up its dead and the entire world became a graveyard filled with hungry cannibalistic ghouls overnight. With HOMEFRONT, the fifth volume in the ongoing 68 series, the focus on Vietnam and the war shifts to the American continent, revealing three red, dripping slices of post-apocalyptic life in the USA and Canada. A pep rally at Harbinger High in small town Pennsylvania becomes an orgy of undead violence in: 68: PEECE AND LOVE. The Canadian snow runs red as Vietnam draft-dodgers flee the US seeking asylum with neutral neighbors to the north in 68 DODGERS. And deep in the Butchertown district of San Francisco, a bloodthirsty madman who calls himself The Zodiac completes with the living dead for headlines, daring the remnants of a fragmented police force to catch him if they can in 68: BAD SIGN! Five full issues plus a cover gallery, pin-ups and tons of behind the scenes extras available nowhere else!
