Guy Colwell : In Fox's Forest before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised In Fox's Forest:

This story about a fox who must find his way back to freedom is an all-ages parable about being true to oneself. After a successful hunt with his mate, a male fox is captured by the two leggers and thrust into captivity. There, he faces dangers more insidious than the simple eat-or-be-eaten laws of the forest: complacency, fear of the unknown, pack mentality, and loss of identity. Black white illustrations throughout.

About the Author Guy Colwell (b. 1945, Oakland, California) is a painter and comics artist best known for his underground comix series Inner City Romance, which once sold 50,000 copies an issue. It was inspired by the two years Colwell spent at McNeil Island federal prison for draft refusal in the late 60s. He also illustrated the underground paper Good Times, and worked as a colorist for and contributor to a number of underground comix projects, before focusing on his work as a painter. Today he is well known for his political paintings, including Litter Beach and The Abuse, as well as wildlife murals, like the 700-square-foot rainforest wall Colwell painted for the Oakland Zoo.
