Love this KatBy Abigail ParkhurstI am a fan of George Herriman and Krazy and have been for years. This is so nice to have a book of the strips that is affordable and accessible. Yay for this gift.

The final collection of Krazy Kat Sunday pages! Krazy Kat, with its eternally beguiling love triangle of kat/dog/mouse, its fantastically inventive language, and its haunting, minimalist desert dcor, has consistently been rated the best comic strip ever created, and Fantagraphics award-winning series one of the best classic comic-strip reprint series ever published. With our 13th volume, Krazy Ignatz 1922-1924, the decades-in-the-making project of publishing every single Krazy Kat Sunday created by Herriman comes to a close. (Next: The dailies!) While the Krazy Kat Sundays were created and published in black and white until 1935 (and therefore the majority of strips in this book are black and white), Herrimans publisher did briefly experiment with running the strip in color in 1924, and all 10 of these rare full-color strips are presented here. The book also includes more rare photographs of Herriman, a DeBaffling section explaining period references and in-jokes, and the usual surprise goodies each of these volumes springs on their readers. And for the 13th and last time, the covers will be by Chris Ware. 168 pages of black-and-white comics

Endlessly perplexing, energetic, deep, and playful. - Sarah Boxer, The New York of Books
This beautifully produced series is a must for any reader interested in great art. - Publishers Weekly
George Herriman was one of the very great artists, in any medium, of the 20th century. - Michael Chabon
About the Author
George Herriman (1880-1944), the creator of Krazy Kat, was born in New Orleans and lived most of his life in Los Angeles, California. He is considered by many to be the greatest strip cartoonist of all time.
