Robert Kirkman : The Walking Dead 100 Project before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised The Walking Dead 100 Project:

GeorgeThis collection doesn't really feature any special commentary or behind the scenes of any part of the series. Yet, what it does give is a nicely presented collection of potential covers for the issue 100 special. All these covers are in black and white save for the blood that can run across many of the designs, some feel considerably more finished than others, yet nearly all of them are really striking and great to look at. There does seem to be more of a focus on close-up grotesque illustrations of various different zombies than anything else, but still very cool stuff. I suppose it also would've been nice to have some more bonus/concept art from Adlard and Kirkman, but that might just be me wishing for them to stop delaying the Cutting Room Floor and Volume 2 of Covers books again and again. Best of all some amount of the proceeds from this collection go towards The Hero Initiative, to support those in the comic-book industry after times of need. A cause I don't immediately think of when thinking about great charitable causes, but it makes sense for an industry I imagine doesn't have a lot stability. Who knows, this cause might allow the next great series to enter our shelves. I say the 100 Project is worth picking up for a quick browse as soon as you get it, and then come back to it after reading some issues of TWD time to time.

LIMITED EDITION ART BOOK published for charity By J. S. Harbour This is an ART BOOK only, full of alternate covers for issue #100, no text. I knew that when I purchased it and I enjoyed it.

This book contains 100 versions of The Walking Dead #100 covers done by 100 different artists. I thought that about 1/3 of the covers looked awesome and 1/3 are very good and 1/3 are just regular good. The Sean Phillips cover is my favorite. It supports the Hero Initiative but the really cool thing is that you probably only heard of about half of the artists featured in this book until you go to a Comic Con (any Comic Con not just that San Diego Donkey Show) and meet some of these diamonds in the rough and then you go, "Hey, you did that Walking Dead #100 cover that was awesome could you draw me a "

Robert Kirkman and Skybound team up with the Hero Initiative to present 100 all-new covers envisioning the horrors of the bestselling The Walking Dead. This art book features brand-new pieces by The Walking Dead artist Charlie Adlard, Paolo Rivera, Ryan Ottley, Rafael Albuquerque, and more! This book will never be reprinted and all proceeds go to the Hero Initiative and comic book creators in need!
