Art Baltazar, Franco Aureliani : Tiny Titans vol. 2: Adventures in Awesomeness before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Tiny Titans vol. 2: Adventures in Awesomeness:

While the words are somewhat on par with a K/1st grade reading level the actual font was kind of small and the comic style made it hard for him to read. I think when he gets a little bit more use to reading these might work for him but right now they are too much. I thought the stories were super cute though and as an adult obviously I didn't have any problems reading and following along with the comic style. Maybe not for super beginner readers but slight more advanced.0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. He absolutely loves the book and I love that he is enjoying reading quietlyBy RyanI ordered this book for my seven year old son at his request. He absolutely loves the book and I love that he is enjoying reading quietly. When he finally put the book down after reading 86 pages straight I glanced through it and was impressed. The writing is clever and witty. At one point blue beetle is standing next to The Beatles. I thought that was cute. I will definitely be ordering more of these.0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Five StarsBy Kathy HarrisKid tested, 5 and 7 year old approved.

Art also created an autobiographical graphic novel called The Big Amoeba for Platinum Studios. He lives outside of Chicago with his wife, Rose, and their children Sonny, Gordon, and Audrey. Bronx-born writer and artist Franco Aureliani has been drawing comics since he could hold a crayon. Currently residing in upstate New York with his wife, Ivette, and son, Nicolas, he spends most of his days in his Batcave-like studio where he produces DC's Tiny Titans comics. In 1995, Franco founded Blindwolf Studios, an independent art studio where he and fellow creators can create children's comics. Franco is the creator, artist and writer of Weirdsville, L'il Creeps, and Eagle All Star, as well as the co-creator and writer of Patrick the Wolf Boy. When he's not writing or drawing, Franco also teaches high school art.
